Your Voice for Business

Image by Kris' Corolla Creations

The Currituck Chamber of Commerce is committed to making Currituck County the best it can be. Since 1997, we have supported and worked for the advancement of the entire county. Our work touches every resident of the county for the better.

Our Mission Statement

The mission of the Currituck Chamber of Commerce is to foster and develop a thriving and sustainable local economy in order to enhance our community's quality of life. We define quality of life as:

- » Economic opportunity for all;
- » Aesthetically pleasing and environmentally sound community;
- » Quality schools and educational programs;
- » Proactive management of livability issues (e.g. traffic congestion, sprawl);
- » The existence of a large, dynamic and diverse tax base.

In fulfilling this mission, the Chamber has a broad range of duties, yet our main priority is serving the business community and our members. First and foremost, we are the voice for business in the community. We can accomplish greater things if we work collectively as a group rather than as individuals.

The Voice for Business

Our Board of Directors, staff and members know the wisdom of coordinating efforts under effective leadership for the advancement and development of the community and the free enterprise system. We are a Chamber of approximately 400 members, including businesses, individuals, nonprofit groups and associations, acting as one voice in the community.

Together we are a unified force, an umbrella of the industrial, commercial, civic and nonprofit interests for the purposes of concerted action. Together we are a strong voice. Our concentrated efforts support those activities, which are broader than any single business or industry, and promote the welfare of the community as a whole.

The Currituck Chamber not only unites the businesses and industry of the county, it also unites the county itself. Currituck County consists of three geographically diverse areas — the vacation resort of the Currituck Outer Banks, the primarily rural communities of the mainland, and isolated Knotts Island. It's a challenge to work for all our members, but we recognize the value of our diverse areas and seek to solidify the county as one.

The Currituck Chamber is a vital source of information for businesses, locals and newcomers as well. We provide information on community development, economic development, tourism, statistical data and membership. We offer up-to-date data to prospective businesses and give as much expertise to small businesses as possible.

Currituck has its own stately Historic Courthouse and Jail. It's on the National Register of Historic Places, and for good reason: both sites were originally constructed in the 1700's and rebuilt in the 1800's. The Historic Jarvisburg Colored School makes that list, too. After an extensive restoration, the school operates as a museum with thoughtful exhibits that reveal an underrepresented and important part of North Carolina history.

Across the county line, history enthusiasts won't want to miss the museums and historical sites that tell stories from our region's past. On the mainland, the Camden County Heritage Museum offers tours of their early 20th century jailhouse and exhibits on local history. From the cry of soldiers at the Battle of South Mills to the secrets of freedom seekers in the Great Dismal Swamp, the museum illustrates these varied stories. Explore the county's heritage through artifacts and miniature replicas or take the Historic jail tour. Knowledgeable docents bring these stories to life.

If you like your history with a healthy dose of the great outdoors, head for Corolla on the Currituck Outer Banks. Within just a few miles of one another, Historic Corolla Village boasts the Whalehead Club, the Currituck Beach Lighthouse, and the Wild Horse Museum, in addition to historic homes and a 19th century schoolhouse. Visitors can explore much of the Village on foot. Climb the lighthouse for expansive views of the Currituck Sound, and then stroll the charming grounds of the Whalehead Club. Or, see how people in Corolla have interacted with their maritime environment at the nearby Outer Banks Center for Wildlife Education.

The Currituck area is also a prime spot for coastal sightseeing. In addition to its beautiful historic sites, Corolla is known for picture perfect beaches and idyllic soundfront spaces. Lucky observers might see some of the town's famous wild horses taking in the scenery, too. These Spanish Mustangs have roamed the Northern Outer Banks for more than 500 years! If you'd rather not leave a sighting to chance, book one of the area's popular horse tours with a local company. Just remember to give our wild neighbors their space – at least 50 feet – and to resist the temptation to feed them. Even more wildlife abound on remote Carova and Knotts Island. Take the ferry over from mainland Currituck for bird watching at the adjacent Mackey Island National Wildlife Refuge: geese, ducks, ospreys, falcons, and even bald eagles are frequently spotted along its Great Marsh Trail.

In Camden, the Dismal Swamp State Park welcomes visitors to its unique ecosystem. George Washington would be amazed at the progress made since his first venture in taming the swamp. Today, paths made by loggers are being used to provide a glimpse of the Dismal's valuable secrets. The park offers interactive exhibits, a half-mile boardwalk, 20 miles of trails, and numerous Ranger-led programs. Learn how freedom seekers sought refuge in the swamp. Canoe and kayak rentals offer the chance to paddle the historic Dismal Swamp Canal. Birding, biking, hiking, paddling, and photography are all great activities at the swamp!

Currituck's Rural Center is also great for kayaking or canoeing on the Currituck Sound. The 105-acre site is dog-friendly and features two stocked ponds for fishing. For adventures on wheels, check out the county's skate park. It offers 7,000 square feet of concrete engineered for skateboarding and is just around the corner from the Currituck Community Center, home to the YMCA, Senior Center, and Cooperative Extension office.

Faster. Higher. Crazier. Explore on a whole new level with H2OBX Waterpark or Kitty Hawk Kites. The rides and attractions at H2OBX Waterpark are built for thrill seekers of all ages. Keep things relaxed with a spin down the park's lazy river, or brave the OBX-themed slides for killer views and serious splashdowns. With deals for locals and visitors alike, H2OBX has quickly become an Outer Banks favorite. Just up the highway, Kitty Hawk Kites offers hang gliding and other extreme experiences from locations up and down the Carolina coast. Their hang gliding school is the largest in the world! Strap into a tandem flier for bird's eye views of the beach, or take a dune hang gliding lesson at the famous Jockey's Ridge. Even kids can get in on the high-flying fun with lessons tailored to their abilities. (Cont. Page 9)

No matter where you live or what you're in the mood for, you can find it in and around Currituck.

Along with a day of sightseeing, museum-hopping, or adventuring, don't forget to indulge in some of North Carolina's best cooking. From seafood markets to crab shacks and waterfront restaurants, coastal cuisine is always on the menu. But, there's plenty around Currituck to satisfy landlubbers, too. For breakfast, swing by Corolla's Duck Donuts for unique offerings like the OBX Donut Breakfast Sandwich or a donut ice cream sundae. If you're a fan of Dunkin Donuts, you can also get your fix of pastries, coffee, and breakfast sandwiches at their Corolla location. Back on the mainland, LJ Beaners is keeping Currituck supplied with creative sweets, coffee, and great lunch options from their Moyock bakery. Order ahead through their website or settle into their welcoming café for a treat. When it's time for dinner, pizza is popular at the beach, too. Try Corolla Pizza and Deli for Stromboli, subs, or huge, satisfying slices. They've been slicing it up since 1989 and provide free delivery for parts of the Northern Outer Banks. Order in, grab a bottle of wine from Sanctuary Vineyards, and enjoy!

No matter where you live or what you're in the mood for, you can find it in and around Currituck. Check out the listings at the back of this Guide for more information about the attractions mentioned in this article. Or, find them online at CurrituckChamber.org. Δ

Architecture & Design in Currituck

As you cross the state line, you cruise by appealing new subdivisions, the shops and churches of Moyock, and a handful of historic homes before you reach long stretches of green fields filled with cornstalks and solar panels. As the buildings file past, they collectively create a record of their community: its past and present, its design, its lifestyle. The features that make it unique. As you drive, you might wonder: what stories do Currituck's buildings tell?

Image by Laura Walter Photography

Let's say you're driving south into Currituck on a summer afternoon. Sunlight glints off windshields and heat rises from the blacktop of Highway 168. As you cross the state line, you cruise by appealing new subdivisions, the shops and churches of Moyock, and a handful of historic homes before you reach long stretches of green fields filled with cornstalks and solar panels. As the buildings file past, they collectively create a record of their community: its past and present, its design, its lifestyle. The features that make it unique. As you drive, you might wonder: what stories do Currituck's buildings tell?

For the historical take on that question, there's no better resource than Barbara Snowden and the Currituck Historical Society. Along with historians Meg Greene Malvasi and Penne Sandbeck, Snowden literally wrote the book on the historic buildings of Currituck. The Goodliest and Most Pleasing Territory: A Building Survey of Currituck County and the Northern Outer Banks was published in 2017 and includes information about and photos of hundreds of local structures. Even a quick glance through its pages reveals much about the ways of life that have shaped Currituck for centuries. Its variety of farmhouses, hunting lodges, and churches, for instance, suggests how county residents spent their time and earned their livelihoods. Currituck's natural surroundings dictated the sorts of homes and buildings that its population required.

In the present day, the Currituck area's climate and resources continue to influence local building projects. Theresa Swimme, of Elizabeth City's Swimme & Son, has noticed how the weather, especially, affects her family's building contractor business. "In Northeast North Carolina," she says, "we have the perfect location for sunrooms. The mild weather allows us to spend more time in [them], and we are just so fortunate to have beautiful country around us." Swimme & Son, in business for more than 40 years, also builds a lot of screen porches and decks. Customers want indoor/outdoor living spaces and lots of light. The natural scenery "makes you want to be in a room with lots of windows," Swimme says, "so you can enjoy it."

Stan White, a former North Carolina State Senator and the owner of Stan White Realty and Construction, has noticed similar trends on the Outer Banks. His company has built and rented homes by the beach for more than four decades. "Many homeowners are requesting covered porches," he says, for access to the outdoors and their aesthetic charm. Covered porches were a staple of historic Outer Banks architecture, but they are practical, too. According to White: "Not only does your porch offer great curb appeal, but it also protects the windows, doors, and interior rugs and furniture from excessive damage from the ultraviolet rays of the sun."

Image Provided by Florez Design Studios

White has also noticed a tendency to favor coastal living that doesn't require a lot of work. "Trex decking and rails, composite materials for soffits and facias and window trim," he says, are popular exterior choices for homeowners who don't want to spend a lot of time or money maintaining their homes. The tendency to choose low maintenance ownership may also explain another trend White has observed. "A smaller home," he says, with "3-4 bedrooms vs. 7 and 8 bedroom homes," has become more popular in recent years.

When it comes to luxurious touches, two other design options stand out to White. "More people are requesting elevators," he notes. New beach house builds are often multi-level, so accessibility is sometimes a priority for residents and vacationing families. "Upscale kitchens," too, are high on the wish lists of homebuyers and renters. "They want upgraded appliances and open floor plans," White says.

For an idea of how people are styling their houses in the kitchen and beyond, check out some of Currituck's home and garden stores on your way "down county." Moyock's Interiors by H&W has specialized in flooring since 1965, there is Beach House Flooring & Tile Company in Jarvisburg and Sawyer's House of Furniture in Elizabeth City offers a large selection of high-quality choices for every room. Fulltilt Blinds and Shutters has your windows covered. And if you love interior design, you won't want to miss Poplar Branch's Coastal Accents & Design. Stop by their colorful showroom for throw pillows or accessories or consult with them for a full-scale interior design project. Their website and blog – coastalaccentsnc.com – is also a great resource for decorating inspiration and know-how.

For outdoor design ideas, start with Moyock's Built to Last. Their Adirondack and other outdoor chairs are made with recycled plastic, so they're as eco-friendly as they are attractive. Browse Cast Stone Studio in Powell's Point for unique garden art or reach out to Currituck Lawn Care to get started with a gorgeous landscape design project. If an aquatic oasis is part of your outdoor vision, The Pool Guy can keep your pool or spa looking good and running well.

Whether you're looking to buy a home in the Currituck area or to learn more about local architecture and design, we recommend flipping back to the member directory at the end of this guide. It's filled with businesses who understand Currituck's unique blend of historic and contemporary, of indoor and outdoor living. Or, visit CurrituckChamber.org for links to local experts. ▲

Welcoming Schools for Currituck's Students

All around the county, schools support students with approaches and events that are educational and fun.

When a student at Currituck's Jarvisburg Elementary School is named her classroom's "Student of the Month," she doesn't just get a pat on the back or a paper certificate. Instead, she might get invited to a celebratory lunch with other superstar students, or even find a sign announcing the achievement in her front yard! Teachers often deliver the signs to their students, surprising the honorees with a special home visit. The school creates an encouraging and warm community by recognizing its students in creative ways.

Jarvisburg's program is just one example of the many thoughtful endeavors that make Currituck County Schools such welcoming places for students. All around the county, schools support students with approaches and events that are educational and fun. At Moyock Elementary, for instance, classrooms recently raised money with a "Glow Run" in hopes of funding a STEM room with a makerspace and robotics activities. Moyock Middle School hosts an ice cream social to reward its A/B honor roll students. And at Shawboro Elementary School, a family reading night brings together students and their families to promote literacy.

Even as they grow their school communities, Currituck's educators bring the wider world into their classrooms. At Knotts Island Elementary School, students recently video-chatted with Bruce Coville, a well-known children's book author. Children at Griggs Elementary School joined in the nationwide Read Across America program with a pajama day and lots of books. Meanwhile, Currituck County Middle School took its engagement to an international level by arranging a vocabulary competition between some of its students and children at an academy in Paris, France.

The well-rounded offerings in our local schools also extend to service initiatives. The J.P. Knapp Early College High School supports groups like an Animal Club, which works with the nearby animal shelter to foster and find homes for pets in need. Central Elementary School loves the animal shelter, too. Recently, they collected donations of pet food and other supplies on behalf of the organization.

All of these positive investments in the county schools have been accompanied by a slew of impressive results. In this school year alone, Currituck County High School celebrated its state championship-winning Competition Cheer Squad and sent its ethics bowl team to the state competition in Chapel Hill for the first time. J.P. Knapp's Science Olympiad team was also on the road, competing at East Carolina University. And that's just the tip of the iceberg. To learn more about specific schools and their initiatives, check out Currituck.k12.nc.us. ▲

Growing a Business in Currituck

Image by Laura Walter Photography

Thanks in part to its small businesses, Currituck has a growing array of services and products available to residents and visitors. In Moyock, for instance, java lovers can get their fix without getting out of their cars at Jo.Nathan's Coffee, a family-owned drive through. Organizations can boost their profile with Eye Candy Digital Video Production, a full-service media company that handles everything from drone photography and website design to television commercials and live events. And in Currituck, clients can unwind with a class or massage session at Escape Massage and Yoga's new studio. Local entrepreneurs are shaping our area business community one savvy idea at a time.

For Venetia Huffman of Read'em & Weep bookstore in Grandy, Currituck was the natural place to start a business. Huffman already lived in the area and chose Grandy for her shop because of its central location, convenient to Moyock and the OBX. She also found the perfect building in Grandy, a "cozy and quaint" shop with a welcoming fireplace, a small café space, and plenty of easy parking. A bookstore was "a needed type of business" for Currituck, Huffman says, "because we do have a lot of readers in the community."

Supporting local entrepreneurs makes Currituck a better, more exciting, place to live and do business.

To serve those readers, Huffman stocks affordable used books for all ages and interests. Customers can browse rare editions and autographed copies or bring in their own used books for resale. Huffman also set up a meeting room in the store that's ideal for book clubs, groups of all kinds, and talks by local authors. Since it opened in March of 2019, Read'em & Weep has hosted 4 authors and planned events with themes like "The Beat Generation – Music, History, and Jack Kerouac." The store's website – readem-obx.com – and Facebook page keep customers up to date on all of its happenings.

When you utilize Currituck's small businesses, it's a win-win for you and the community.

"Retail is challenging," Huffman acknowledges. "But I'm determined to make it work." In her second year of business, she aims to bring more members of the local community into Read'em & Weep. "It's not a conventional bookstore," she says. "I know that once people come in, they'll love it!" And Huffman has the background and motivation to meet her goal. Before she became an entrepreneur, she served as the CEO of an international logistics company based in Norfolk, Virginia. But opening a bookstore, she says, was "something I've been wanting to do for many years. I've always been an avid reader and have wanted to translate my business experience into running a bookstore."

Supporting local entrepreneurs makes Currituck a better, more exciting place to live and do business. So, pick up a paperback at Read'em & Weep. Grab a coffee from Jo.Nathan's, strike a pose at Escape Massage and Yoga, and tune into a reality show produced by Eye Candy. Dig into a seafood feast from Outer Banks Boil Company, and then call DV Cleaning and Home Services to make your space shine. When you utilize Currituck's small businesses, it's a win-win for you and the community.

Additional access to medical care is available in other cities of southeast Hampton Roads (Virginia) as well as Greenville, NC.

In addition to the services offered at the nearby hospitals, there are medical offices throughout the county. Fresh Catch...

Whether you're looking to catch your own seafood or to buy it fresh from a local market, Currituck-area businesses have got you covered. The county's easy access to the Atlantic and nearby sounds makes it a standout destination for fishing, crabbing, and all things seafood.

According to Russell King, manager of the Oregon Inlet Fishing Center in Nags Head, the Outer Banks truly is "the premier fishing spot up and down the east coast." These islands' proximity to "currents and the famed Gulf Stream," he explains, make them perfect for fishing. And, at Oregon Inlet, they take great advantage of that location! "Oregon Inlet offers a comprehensive charter boat fishing experience for the 'old salt' or the vacationing fisherman," King says. Their full-service marina maintains a fleet of modern boats to get folks out on the water and provides extras like fish cleaning and photography services back on the docks. They even offer dolphin safari and sunset cruises for those who'd rather sight-see than fish. Oregon Inlet Fishing Center makes it easy to explore our local waters with their variety of excellent options for fishing.

Derek Kinney of OBX Bait & Tackle also sees variety as a big part of our area's appeal. "You can go crabbing. Get on a shrimp boat. Fish the sound." From their Corolla shop, customers can charter boats for a long day on the water, get outfitted with fishing gear, or just swing in to pick up some bait. OBX Bait & Tackle even makes it possible to register for North Carolina Fishing Licenses while you're in the store! Nearby, Corolla Bait & Tackle offers two locations for charter fishing and tackle supplies. The shop sets up customers with customized experiences ranging from "peaceful sound fishing to offshore adventures." (Cont. Page 31)

Always Welcome. Always Fresh. Always Country.

While our natural surroundings and top-notch equipment help to keep both locals and tourists on the water, King and Kinney also think hospitality plays a role. "We see the same customers year after year," Kinney says, "and at some point they stop being customers and start being friends." A fun atmosphere with plenty of "laughing and joking around" draws repeat visitors to OBX Bait & Tackle. Over at Oregon Inlet Fishing Center, they maintain an active blog to keep customers in the loop. Their entertaining "Fishing Reports" share pictures, stories and forecasts with clients, old and new.

For those who'd rather leave the fishing to someone else, Dockside North Seafood Market is the way to go. Since 1987, they've dished out fresh and prepared seafood from their Corolla location. One of the market's most popular options is their Downeast Clambake. It pairs seafood such as shrimp, crab, and clams with new potatoes, corn on the cob, and more for a stove top feast! With call ahead ordering, the market "makes it easy and convenient to get the best seafood on the Outer Banks."
