& HISTORY of the Dismal Swamp

written by Josh Bass

Development Authority

Nestled within the heart of Camden County, North Carolina, lies a hidden gem shrouded in mystery and rich history – the Dismal Swamp. Enigmatic and captivating, this vast expanse of wilderness has long been a source of fascination, offering visitors a unique journey into the past and an unparalleled natural experience.

The Dismal Swamp, with its complex ecosystem and dense vegetation, has an illustrious history dating back centuries. Originally inhabited by Native American tribes such as the Nansemond and Chowanoke, it later drew the attention of European settlers in the late 17th century. Its name, "Dismal," is deceiving, for this swamp is anything but dismal; it's a tapestry of biodiversity, teeming with life.

One of the swamp's defining moments came in the late 18th century when George Washington envisioned harnessing the swamp's resources. Washington saw the potential of the swamp as a commercial venture and sought to drain and log the area, a project that laid the groundwork for the 22-mile-long Dismal Swamp Canal. Today, this historic waterway stands as a testament to human ingenuity and engineering prowess, attracting boaters, history enthusiasts, and nature lovers alike.

Embedded within the depths of the Dismal

Swamp lies a profound chapter of African American history. The vastness of this swamp became a sanctuary for many enslaved individuals who sought refuge, strategically navigating its expanse to find higher elevations or secluded islands for concealment. Within this labyrinth, colonies of escaped slaves, known as maroons, ingeniously formed a society to endure the harsh elements of the swamp. In recognition of its significance in the Underground Railroad, the National Park Service bestowed the Dismal Swamp with the designation of a Network to Freedom site in 2003.

At the heart of this historical narrative is Moses Grandy, a resilient figure whose life story illuminates the complexities of slavery and the pursuit of freedom. Born into slavery in Camden County, Captain Grandy, a successful waterman, faced the bitter sting of being cheated out of purchasing his freedom not once, but twice, before finally attaining liberation. The Dismal Swamp State Park Center shares information on this remarkable history, featuring information on Moses Grandy. His impactful autobiography, "Narrative of the Life of Moses Grandy; Late a Slave in the United States," not only chronicles his personal struggles but also played a pivotal role in the anti-slavery movements of the era. The echoes of his narrative reverberate through the swamp.

Visitors to the Dismal Swamp are greeted by a breathtaking vista of cypress and tupelo trees, draped in Spanish moss, creating an ethereal ambiance. The diverse flora and fauna offer a sanctuary for a myriad of species, including rare and endangered wildlife such as black bears, bobcats, and numerous bird species, making it a paradise for nature enthusiasts and birdwatchers.

The Great Dismal Swamp beckons adventurers to explore its trails and boardwalks. As you traverse these paths, the air is filled with the symphony of nature – the rustling of leaves, the chirping of birds, and the occasional splash of a frog or fish. It's an opportunity to disconnect from the modern world and immerse yourself in the tranquility of unspoiled wilderness.

Preserving the Dismal Swamp is paramount, and numerous conservation initiatives are in place to protect its delicate ecosystem. Ecotourism has burgeoned in recent years, drawing nature enthusiasts, photographers, and history buffs. The Dismal Swamp State Park offers guided tours, providing an immersive experience for those seeking adventure and a deeper understanding of this unique ecosystem.

The Dismal Swamp isn't merely a destination; it's an odyssey through time and nature. Its allure lies in its mysterious past, its diverse flora and fauna, and the sheer tranquility it offers. Whether you're a history buff intrigued by tales of George Washington's vision or a nature enthusiast yearning for an immersive wilderness experience, the Dismal Swamp has something for everyone.

Immersing oneself in the embrace of nature becomes an enchanting endeavor within the expansive 14,000 acres of Dismal Swamp State Park. The old logging trails, weaving through this "last wild place," invite a myriad of experiences that resonate with the tranquility of untouched wilderness. Whether embarking on a biking adventure, indulging in birding escapades, trekking through hiking trails, capturing the essence of the swamp through photography, or paddling along its mysterious waterways, the possibilities for nature exploration are boundless. The State Park enhances this journey with its Visitor Center, adorned with interactive exhibits showcasing the diverse fauna that calls the swamp home. A half-mile boardwalk and a network of more than 20 miles of trails beckon avid explorers, complemented by numerous Ranger-led programs that unfold the secrets of this natural haven. For those seeking an aquatic or cycling adventure, canoe/kayak and bike rentals are readily available, opening up the door to a world where nature's wonders unfold with each pedal stroke and paddle push. Embark on a kayak excursion down the canal, hike through the shaded trails, or simply find solace in the symphony of nature. It's an opportunity to reconnect with the environment, to appreciate the beauty of untouched wilderness, and to savor moments of tranquility away from the hustle and bustle of modern life.

Each Spring the sun casts its gentle glow, a mesmerizing spectacle unfolds along the Dismal Swamp Canal's dark, mirrored waters. Paddle for the Border, an annual event that draws hundreds of paddlers, transforms this historic waterway into a vibrant tapestry of floating vessels. The journey spans 7.5 miles, culminating at the North Carolina/Virginia border. Rooted in history dating back to 1763, when George Washington's land company surveyed the swamp, this event commemorates the canal's construction and its pivotal role in the 19th-century Underground Railroad. The day begins with a pre-launch "grab-and-go" breakfast at the Dismal Swamp State Park in South Mills, NC, setting the tone for a leisurely three-hour paddle that crosses state lines. The expedition concludes at the Dismal Swamp Canal Trail on Ballahack Rd. in Chesapeake, VA, where paddlers gather for a well-deserved picnic lunch, celebrating not only the journey but the rich history that unfolds along the route.

The Dismal Swamp isn't just a swamp; it's a living testament to the resilience of nature and the storied past that defines it. With its history steeped in ambition and its landscape teeming with biodiversity, this natural wonder invites exploration and promises an unforgettable experience for all who venture into its depths. Whether you seek adventure, a history lesson, or a peaceful retreat, consider a visit to the Dismal Swamp in Camden County, North Carolina.

It's a voyage into nature's embrace and an encounter with the captivating story woven into its very fabric.

Want to visit?

The Dismal Swamp Canal Welcome Center, operated by the NCDOT and managed by Camden County, opened in 1989 along Hwy 17 (three miles from the VA line) and is the only visitor center in the US that provides assistance and information to highway and waterway travelers. The welcome center offers travel & tourism brochures for all regions of NC from coast to mountains, including historic sites & attractions, state parks, special events, travel conditions, and NC Transportation Maps. COMMITMENT to Holistic Well-Being written by Josh Bass | photography by Laura Walter

Currituck and the surrounding community is blessed with excellent health care. Three strong hospital systems operate in this area, however, in recent years growth of alternative wellness and medicine has been strong. Many practitioners in these fields see themselves as a compliment to more traditional healthcare approaches.

One of the best known and most popular wellness options is massage. Locally, Kinetic Restoration, Eden Day Spa, and Maluhia Massage & Bodywork all provide massage therapy. Kinetic Restoration, owned by Janelle Cooper, takes a clinical approach to massage therapy as a way to help clients manage pain. While often portrayed as a luxury and indulgent service, massage therapy can work for some individuals as an effective way to treat pain. "My clinical approach to massage therapy helps people manage pain. People with musculoskeletal pain will commonly take an over-the-counter or prescription pain reliever. Massage therapy is extremely effective in managing pain, and it works by increasing production of our body's natural pain relievers and increasing circulation in the area. Our bodies need healthy circulation to heal," says Cooper.

"People frequently ask me what type of massage is the best – Swedish, Deep Tissue, Sports Massage, Trigger Point, Myofascial Release, to name a few. However, the answer is not so straightforward. The type of massage that works best for you depends on how your body responds to the therapist's touch," says Leilani Benavides, owner of Maluhia Massage & Bodywork. "It's important to remember that even if you're not looking for relaxation, your body still needs it. This is why it's crucial for the therapist to pay attention to the client's overall responses, be observant to what they are palpating (feeling), and communicate openly with you," continues Benavides.

Hometown Med of Moyock and OBX provides primary care in addition to wellness services such as IV hydration with supplements, Botox, and dermal fillers. Hometown Med is owned and operated by Carmen Wynes, NP-C, who has been a healthcare provider for over 12 years. She currently works at Sentara Norfolk General Hospital in burn/trauma and general surgery services. She also has over 2 years of experience in neurosurgical services where she participated in over 100+ neurosurgical cases. Hometown Med's IV hydration treatment is a method of delivering fluid directly to the bloodstream through an intravenous needle. Due to the direct delivery of fluids into the bloodstream, hydration occurs much faster than oral fluid consumption. This method also allows for the accelerated absorption of electrolytes, vitamins, and minerals.

Chiropractic treatments have been available in Currituck since Dr. Tom Vinick opened his first practice in 1997. "Chiropractic care offers an alternative to traditional allopathic medicine in that chiropractic does not seek to diagnose and treat medical conditions; rather, we reduce pressure on the nervous system by mobilizing the spine. The nervous system controls healing and coordinates all bodily functions. The body has a tremendous capacity to heal itself, and chiropractic adjustments simply offer a means to release the power that heals and keeps the body vital. At In8 Chiropractic we offer a unique model of care which requires no appointments, no insurance and no x-rays. We offer walk-in care at $25 per visit, making it convenient and affordable," explains Dr. Vinick.

Currituck is also home to PT2Go, offering physical therapy. According to Matt Fiano, owner of PT2Go and a Doctor of Physical Therapy, "Physical therapy is a great example of alternative medicine and wellness. We can fix your pain, increase your strength and range of motion, improve your balance, and allow you to do other activities at a higher level while preventing future injury. Exercises, manual techniques, and other tools we use can accomplish this, and it's all natural; no pain meds, no surgery. You don't necessarily have to have pain to see us as we are experts in how the body moves. This allows us to understand why you may not have a lot of strength with one muscle group, lose your balance easily, or aren't driving the golf ball as long as you used to. We work with all ages and are huge proponents to living a long, healthy life."

In recent years the popularity of CBD products has grown exponentially. Two local providers of CBD products are Nuts and Buds located in Grandy and Hemp House Wellness in Moyock. Hemp House Wellness opened its first brick and mortar retail wellness boutique in Virginia Beach, Virginia in 2018 and expanded to Moyock in 2023. "Our passion and expertise in the areas of sustainable nutrition, advanced yoga training, and almost 30 years in independent pharmacy provided us with the background necessary to bring phyto-cannabinoid rich wellness products to the consumer market," said Rita Dahan . Nuts and Buds is the retail store for G. Ryan Howell Farms located in North Carolina. The farm is a licensed hemp grower and registered processor with the North Carolina Hemp Commission. Nuts & Buds offers a broad line of CBD products promoting healthy living such as CBD infused salve, CBD infused lotion and bath products, CBD gummies, and more.

Currituck and its surrounding community are truly blessed with an array of excellent healthcare and wellness options. The growth of alternative wellness and medicine presents residents with diverse options to enhance their overall well-being. In essence, Currituck's healthcare landscape is a vibrant tapestry, weaving together traditional and alternative approaches to cater to the diverse needs of its residents. The availability of these varied healthcare options reflects a commitment to holistic well-being, ensuring that the community is well-supported on its journey to health and vitality.

Local Booksellers

Embrace the Three "P's"

Noted self-help author Napoleon Hill wrote: "Patience, persistence and perspiration make an unbeatable combination for success." For business owners Susan Sawin of Island Bookstore's three locations (two in Dare county, one in Currituck county) and Venetia Huffman of Read 'em & Weep used books in Currituck county, this quote undeniably resonates for bookselling entrepreneurs. Independent booksellers, commonly known as "indies," are survivalists, overcoming a multitude of ongoing obstacles to beat the odds and stay relevant. Despite the introduction of digital technology such as e-readers and Audible, the competition of behemoth corporations such as Amazon or Barnes & Noble, and now the COVID-19 pandemic financial devastation, the "indie" bookstore community has managed to grab an increased market presence. According to U.S. industry data researcher Statista, there were 1410 independent owners reported in calendar year 2010, their numbers swelling to 2185 for calendar year 2023.

Susan Sawin, of Island Bookstore, worked as an employee in the Outer Banks stores originally owned by former American Booksellers Association president Bill Rickman, and his wife Ursula. Having relocated to the town of Duck, Rickman brought his fifty years of experience in the publishing and bookselling trades. Island Bookstore first opened its doors at the Duck location in 1993. Two other locations were subsequently opened in Kitty Hawk and Corolla. Susan, a Dare county native, purchased all three existing stores after leaving careers as both a lawyer and a librarian. She continues to carry the torch for Rickman, whose vision "...was to create bookstores that meet the very diverse reading interests of both the local community and the visitor population." "Island Bookstores offers a full selection of current fiction and nonfiction for all ages. We have most every local history title published and carry books from around 15 local fiction authors. We also carry journals and stationery, craft kits, games and art supplies for those who might face rainy days while on vacation!"

Venetia Huffman, owner of Read 'em & Weep used books located on the Currituck mainland within the historic township of Currituck, is a Virginia Beach native and former international logistics corporate executive with a lifelong passion for reading. "For as long as I can remember, I've wanted to combine my love of reading with my corporate business experience to open a quaint local used bookstore where I could share my passion," she comments. "Whenever I traveled for business or pleasure, I had to include visits to local independent bookstores which might offer ideas to make my personal vision a reality. Because risk-taking is not in my DNA, it took about fifteen years of serious contemplation and continual encouragement from friends and family to sign that first building lease." March 31, 2019 was opening day at Read 'em & Weep's first location in Grandy, also on the Currituck mainland. Her used book collection is impressive, with most book genres well represented. "My inventory is dependent upon what is donated or surrendered, so the store may not always have something for everyone. But I encourage giving us a call or visiting again, because I'm always getting different materials from a variety of readers. For me, every donation is like opening a present because I never know what gems may be in that box or bag." Huffman also offers jigsaw puzzles, music CD's, and movie DVD's.

Many believe that technology has significantly changed the literary landscape and continues to pose a perceivable threat to the survivability of the independent bookstore. Island Bookstore owner Susan Sawin believes that "...e-books and print co-exist well these days. Most of our customers like the feel of a book in their hands, although a few will browse and then purchase e-books. Most folks who read e-books also read print." Read 'em & Weep owner Venetia Huffman agrees. "Even digital devotees can't resist coming in to browse and treasure hunt for that unexpected used title which might be on our shelves waiting just for them. Many of my visitors will confess to reading on their devices, but they are still drawn to having that hardcover or paperback in their hands."

Both Sawin and Huffman emphasize the exclusive defining element of the independent bookstore - an integral sense of community engagement and involvement. Independent bookstores are not mere retailers, but community participants. "Indies" give visitors a level of customer service, staff knowledge, personal attention, and inviting spirit which can't be found elsewhere. "We have the most knowledgeable, friendly and helpful booksellers working at Island Bookstore! Most comments we get are grateful for the friendly help and overall service they receive while looking for their next read. Our customers seem to enjoy our location and ambiance," emphasizes Susan Sawin. "We have a huge selection but our store feels organic and home-like." After Huffman's original location in Grandy was closed due to the owner's sale of the building, her similar goal of a cozy, inviting vibe is now represented within the residential home she has transformed in Currituck. "I've worked hard to create a sense of relaxation, where my visitors can enjoy sitting comfortably, having conversation, and spending some stress-free time surrounded by books. I want my store to be a destination, not just a stop on their itinerary. When customers tell me I selected just the perfect books or when Outer Banks visitors return to the store during each vacation, I am so flattered. It makes me realize how blessed I am to be a bookseller."

Further highlighting their robust commitment to community, both store owners stock books by local authors, arrange promotional events, support local activities, assist with charitable causes, and partner with other businesses. Over the years, Island Bookstore locations have hosted many author discussions and book launches for aspiring local writers. More recently, Susan was also proud to host a group author event for the Southeastern Virginia Romance Writers organization during their spring retreat. As a participant with the December 2023 Old Corolla Christmas Village, Island Bookstore hosted not only local author Jan Dawson (Secret Storm) but also local band Saunders, Kelly, and the Other Guy for a daylong event marketed "Tinsel and Talent."

Read 'em & Weep has hosted author discussions and signings, held a "kids reading to therapy dogs day," co-hosted a bourbon tasting night to benefit a local animal rescue, invited a private school spring field trip to its Grandy location, and most recently hosted a pre-Christmas season Trades of Hope merchandise sale. Both Sawin and Huffman intend to continue their momentum with future gatherings and events. Susan Sawin remarks "We had so much fun [with Old Corolla Christmas Village] and we are looking at ways to showcase local musicians in the future." On February 15th, Island's Kitty Hawk store is pleased to co-host non-fiction author Dean King for a talk at the Manteo campus of the College of the Albemarle. (Check social media or call the Kitty Hawk store for details.)

Because of her store's scenic view of the Currituck Sound, Huffman hopes to offer more outdoor events and would like to invite food and beverage trucks on occasion. "I'd like to launch the upcoming spring season with a discussion and signing by local author and former Virginian-Pilot feature writer Jeff Hampton. Jeff has written a beautiful book about the wild horses (Corolla's Wild Horses: A History) and I want to make sure Read 'em & Weep is on his speaking schedule this year!"

Sawin and Huffman were asked their opinions about current reading trends. Island Bookstores sales would indicate fictional romance is "...at the top of the stack" according to Susan. "We also sell a lot of historical fiction, science fiction, and horror. Mysteries are also gaining traction among our readers." From the used bookstore owner's perspective, Huffman says that the number of classic literature purchases has been surprising. "When I first opened the store, I expected to sell a significant number of romance and other fiction types such as mysteries. But I continue to be intrigued by readers who want to find classic literature books. Luckily, I usually have a great selection of classics to offer. My other significant sales tend to be with historical fiction and fantasy. Of course, many readers, and I count myself in that group, always love a good mystery."

Both Susan Sawin and Venetia Huffman are emphatic that bookstores are not fierce competitors - with libraries or each other. "Independent bookstores, like libraries, are where readers meet their books. Promoting the love of reading...helps every reader either growing or feeding," proclaims Sawin. Huffman shares similar comments. "Our mission is for individuals to read. We want to supplement, not replace, local libraries. And I refer customers to Susan's stores and other booksellers all the time! I know she does the same for me. Reading is a healthy addiction we all like to feed." Island Bookstore and Read 'em & Weep both partner with local school affiliates to focus on literacy programs as a foundation for the future success of each and every child.

The passion for everything literary clearly permeates the comments of both Sawin and Huffman, and seems to be the driving force of their mutual ability to be reflections of "the three P's" as suggested by Napoleon Hill. Hill would be pleased to know his recipe generates results for these two local women who surrendered successful professional careers to follow their bookselling dreams. For Susan Sawin and Venetia Huffman, that last chapter is yet to be written.

Whalehead Club in Historic Corolla by Laura Walter

Currituck has its own stately Historic Courthouse and Jail. It's on the National Register of Historic Places, and for good reason: both sites were originally constructed in the 1700's and rebuilt in the 1800's. The Historic Jarvisburg Colored School makes that list, too. After an extensive restoration, the school operates as a museum with thoughtful exhibits that reveal an underrepresented and important part of North Carolina history.

Across the county line, history enthusiasts won't want to miss the museums and historical sites that tell stories from our region's past. On the mainland, the Camden County Heritage Museum offers tours of their early 20th century jailhouse and exhibits of local history. From the cry of soldiers at the Battle of South Mills to the secrets of freedom seekers in the Great Dismal Swamp, the museum illustrates these varied stories. Explore the county's heritage through artifacts and miniature replicas or take the Historic Jail tour. Knowledgeable docents bring these stories to life.

If you like your history with a healthy dose of the great outdoors, head for Corolla on the Currituck Outer Banks. Within just a few miles of one another, Historic Corolla Village boasts the Whalehead Club, the Currituck Beach Lighthouse, and the Wild Horse Museum, in addition to historic homes and a 19th century schoolhouse. Visitors can explore much of the Village on foot. Climb the lighthouse for expansive views of the Currituck Sound, and then stroll the charming grounds of the Whalehead Club. Or, see how people in Corolla have interacted with their maritime environment at the nearby Outer Banks Center for Wildlife Education.

The Currituck area is also a prime spot for coastal sightseeing. In addition to its beautiful historic sites, Corolla is known for picture perfect beaches and idyllic soundfront spaces. Lucky observers might see some of the town's famous wild horses taking in the scenery, too. These Spanish Mustangs have roamed the Northern Outer Banks for more than 500 years! If you'd rather not leave a sighting to chance, book one of the area's popular horse tours with a local company. Just remember to give our wild neighbors their space – at least 50 feet – and resist the temptation to feed them. Even more wildlife abound on remote Carova and Knotts Island. Take the ferry over from mainland Currituck for bird watching at the adjacent Mackey Island National Wildlife Refuge: geese, ducks, ospreys, falcons, and even bald eagles are frequently spotted along its Great Marsh Trail.

In Camden, the Dismal Swamp State Park welcomes visitors to its unique ecosystem. George Washington would be amazed at the progress made since his first venture in taming the swamp. Today, paths made by loggers are being used to provide a glimpse of the Dismal's valuable secrets. The park offers interactive exhibits, a half-mile boardwalk, 20 miles of trails, and numerous Ranger-led programs. Learn how freedom seekers sought refuge in the swamp. Canoe and kayak rentals offer the chance to paddle the historic Dismal Swamp Canal. Birding, biking, hiking, paddling, and photography are all great activities at the swamp!

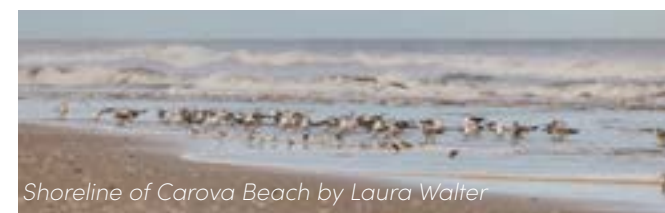

Currituck's Rural Center is also great for kayaking or canoeing on the Currituck Sound. The 105-acre site is dog-friendly and features two stocked ponds for fishing. For adventures on wheels, check out the county's skate park. It offers 7,000 square feet of concrete engineered for skateboarding and is just around the corner from the Currituck Community Center, home to the YMCA, Senior Center, and Cooperative Extension office.

Faster. Higher. Crazier. Explore on a whole new level with H2OBX Waterpark or Kitty Hawk Kites. The rides and attractions at H2OBX Waterpark are built for thrill seekers of all ages.

Keep things relaxed with a spin down the park's lazy river, or brave the OBX-themed slides for killer views and serious splashdowns. With deals for locals and visitors alike, H2OBX has quickly become an Outer Banks favorite. Just up the highway, Kitty Hawk Kites offers hang gliding and other extreme experiences from locations up and down the Carolina coast. Their hang gliding school is the largest in the world! Strap into a tandem flier for bird's eye views of the beach, or take a dune hang gliding lesson at the famous Jockey's Ridge. Even kids can get in on the high-flying fun with lessons tailored to their abilities.

Along with a day of sightseeing, museum-hopping, or adventuring, don't forget to indulge in some of North Carolina's best cooking. From seafood markets to crab shacks and waterfront restaurants, coastal cuisine is always on the menu. But, there's plenty around Currituck to satisfy landlubbers, too. For breakfast, swing by Corolla's Duck Donuts for unique offerings like the OBX Donut Breakfast Sandwich or a donut ice cream sundae. If you're a fan of Dunkin' Donuts, you can also get your fix of pastries, coffee, and breakfast sandwiches at their Corolla location. Back on the mainland, LJ Beaners is keeping Currituck supplied with creative sweets, coffee, and great lunch options from their Moyock bakery. Order ahead through their website or settle into their welcoming café for a treat. When it's time for dinner, pizza is popular at the beach, too. Try Corolla Pizza & Deli for Stromboli, subs, or huge, satisfying slices. They've been slicing it up since 1989 and provide free delivery for parts of the Northern Outer Banks. Order in, grab a bottle of wine from Sanctuary Vineyards, and enjoy!

No matter where you live or what you're in the mood for, you can find it in and around Currituck.

The future of healthcare for Northeastern North Carolina

Sentara Albemarle Regional Health Campus

Sentara's new, 135-acre campus at Halstead Boulevard Extended and Thunder Road in Elizabeth City began opening in 2023.

Featuring a modern, efficient and patient-centric layout, the $200 million campus marks the most significant healthcare investment in Northeastern North Carolina since the current Sentara Albemarle Medical Center was built over 60 years ago.

Phase 1

Medical Office Building

The two-story, 83,000-square-foot medical office building opened in August 2023. Featuring the new Sentara Cancer Care Center, the facility includes a state-of-the-art radiation oncology suite which houses a new linear accelerator to provide radiation with pinpoint accuracy for cancer patients. This innovation allows for precise targeting of tumors without damaging surrounding healthy tissues and organs. Sentara Cardiac Rehab and Sentara Family Medicine Physicians, Division of Albemarle Physician Services – Sentara, Inc. are now also open in the building.

In 2024, the Sentara Albemarle Diagnostic Center will open and include imaging, mammography and laboratory services.

Future tenants of the building will include cardiology, obstetrics and gynecology, medical oncology, orthopedics and sports medicine, pediatrics, vascular and general surgery and wound care.

Phase 2

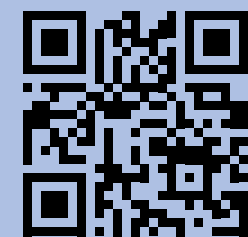

A New Sentara Albemarle Medical Center

The new, high-efficiency hospital will open in 2025 with a patient-centric layout that represents the trend toward preventive care, outpatient services using remote technologies and minimal hospital stays. Just since planning began for the campus, healthcare has changed drastically. Surgeries that used to require days in the hospital are now outpatient procedures. Primary care visits are being done virtually. Patients can now stay home or check in with their doctor during their lunch break at work. This new trend in care does not necessarily change what patients need but changes how they expect to meet those needs.

About Sentara

Sentara, an integrated, not-for-profit healthcare delivery system, celebrates more than 130 years in pursuit of its mission — “we improve health every day.” Sentara is one of the largest health systems in the U.S. Mid-Atlantic and Southeast, and among the top 20 largest not-for-profit integrated health systems in the country, with 30,000 employees, 12 hospitals in Virginia and Northeastern North Carolina, and the Sentara Plans division which serves more than 1.2 million members in Virginia and Florida. Sentara is recognized nationally for clinical quality and safety, and is strategically focused on innovation and creating an extraordinary healthcare experience for our patients and members.

Building Blocks To Succeed

written by Mary B. Simmons

Currituck is known and loved for many resources it offers residents and tourists...hunting and fishing, pristine beaches, wild horses, stunning views of the Currituck and Albemarle Sounds, a rural atmosphere even among unprecedented growth and opportunity. Yet, Currituck offers another resource that is critical to the future growth of the county: an innovative school system with an outstanding staff meeting the needs of over 4000 students daily, from PK (pre-kindergarten) through Grade 12.

Our school system is an invaluable resource for students, employing the most qualified staff members to guide our county students into becoming life-long learners and preparing them for success in their future. The ten schools in the county offer students dedicated and caring staff members while each school has its own unique personality. Step into our schools: from Knotts Island Elementary School or J. P. Knapp Early College, housed in historic buildings funded heartily years ago by New York publishing giant and Ducks Unlimited founder, Joseph Palmer Knapp, to Central Elementary School, Griggs Elementary School, and Moyock Elementary School, schools that blend historic buildings with new additions, and then step into Currituck County High School, Currituck Middle School, Moyock Middle School, and Jarvisburg and Shawboro Elementary Schools, each more modern buildings but sharing the same community oriented focus – your students matter here. They are part of our community.

Currituck County Schools provide students a strong educational foundation beginning with our very youngest children...our preschool and elementary school children. Preschool and our early grades provide our students the educational foundations to succeed at the middle and high school levels, not only by teaching the basics such as reading, writing, mathematics, and study habits, but also by focusing on the physical and mental needs of each child, fulfilled by play and hands on activities with small group experiences. Preschool and elementary school staff are highly qualified, and highly trained – many of them have worked for and earned their National Board Certifications. They are themselves life-long learners and participate in staff development activities to hone their skills.

Currituck teachers braved a new frontier when COVID forced them to go fully digital. They met the challenge of offering virtual learning experiences for their students while maintaining connection with each young student through computer and phone interaction. Currituck County teachers now use digital learning and face-to-face instruction in blended learning situations to provide unique opportunities for each student.

Outstanding Program Focus: The First Building Block

For our very youngest students, Currituck County Schools offer a NC Pre-K Program (previously More at Four), which takes a play-based approach to learning. These teachers and assistants build on a child's natural curiosity to provide student-centered instruction. Walk into one of these classrooms and see children engaged in play and fun learning activities. The dedicated NC Pre-K staff meet students at their individual levels and nurture whole-child development. NC Pre-K classrooms are housed at Central and Griggs Elementary Schools.

Elementary School Excitement

Catch some of the wonder and excitement for school and learning by walking through the doors of one of our elementary schools. Feel the excitement, whether you take the ferry to visit Knotts Island Elementary School, or drive to our southernmost school, Jarvisburg Elementary School, or visit any of our other fine elementary schools, Moyock, Central, and Shawboro, and you will feel the joy when you walk through the doors.

At Knotts Island Elementary School experience small school life with Christmas plays, school-wide reading challenges, author visits, and family coding nights. Visit Moyock Elementary School, and you could experience Glow Runs, Mad Science Assemblies, Balloons Over Broadway parades, and service projects. Travel south to Shawboro Elementary School, and find Fun Runs, Santa and his elves on the roof, Food Drives for the community, and Veteran's Day programs. A little farther south at Central Elementary School, witness book character parades, reading festivals, and 5K Run & Walks. Stop by Griggs Elementary School to cheer students on as they participate in a 5K Color Run, pumpkin decorating contests, and Superheroes Spirit days. Farther south at Jarvisburg Elementary School see the excitement as students participate in scavenger hunts, STEM activities, Mission Impossibles, and Candy Cane Coding.

Beyond the Foundation: Middle and High Schools Offer Diverse Programming

From athletics to clubs, from Career and Technical offerings to scholarly academics and unique and new course offerings, Currituck County middle schools and high schools provide learning, enrichment, and fun that build on the firm foundation of the earlier grades. Students at Currituck Middle School and Moyock Middle School get their first taste of school sports teams, chorus and band, Beta Clubs, FFA, and interest-based clubs. They get a menu of coursework in Career and Technical Courses or CTE Career Cafe Moments, and some students even begin high school coursework in middle school.

Students at J.P. Knapp Early College not only pursue dual enrollment with the College of The Albemarle (COA), but participate in many club activities, such as Chess Club, Math Club, and Fine Arts Club while also raising donations for our local animal shelter. What's cooking at Currituck County High School? Club offerings and school sports are strong and exciting! The CCHS Beta Club had a donation drive for the animal shelter. Students experienced a thrilling Law Enforcement Symposium, the annual Chorus Winter Concert, when the band and chorus again thrilled the audience, and the outstanding theater program. CCHS courses include exciting offerings such as COA Dual Enrollment, expanded CTE offerings, Air Force Reserve Officer Training Corps (AFROTC), English 4 with a foods focus, and EMT and Fire CTE courses, along with a buffet of other course offerings to provide Currituck County students with exceptional choices.
